SOCIAL.

The engagement is announced in Montreal of Miss Mina Dussaneau, daughter of Mr. Arthur Dussaneau, to Mr. M. J. Henry, of New York and Seattle.

The bridal bouquet, thrown among her girl friends by Mrs. Harry Napier Lane yesterday before starting on her honeymoon trip, was caught by Miss Grace Johnston, it is said. The old tradition has it that whichever maid catches the bride's bouquet will be the next to throw her own.

Mrs. Duncan Marshall, who has been spending the winter on Prince Edward Island, returned yesterday accompanied by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Alfred McInnes, who joins her husband here. Mr. and Mrs. McInnes have secured a residence on Jasper avenue near Twelfth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Napier Lane left yesterday afternoon after the bride's reception for a honeymoon trip to the Coast. Mrs. Lane was a becoming travelling suit of tan cloth with milk toque. At the marriage ceremony in the First Presbyterian church the bride, in her dainty gown of cream satin with rich lace border, tulle veil and shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley, is said to have made a very lovely bride. Her bridesmaid, Miss Matheson, wore a pretty frock of primrose yellow tulle and chiffon with becoming brown belt. Mrs. Robertson, mother of the bride, wore a rich gown of black embroidered net over tulle. Mrs. W. H. Cooper wore a grey silk gown with white chiffon and lace garniture. Mrs. Robert Robertson, her bridesmaid, wore a gown of cream satin with rich lace trimmings. At the church and at the reception afterwards a number of daintily gowned guests were present. The presents were numerous and handsome.

FROM DAY TO DAY*THE GREAT MOON MEADOWS.

Oh, I hear the cattle moaning in the great Moon Meadows,
In the great Moon Meadows of the West;
I can hear the cattle calling while the bitter snow is falling,
I can hear the cattle calling, more distressed.

'Tis a cruel sky that's scowling I can hear the grey wolves howling
In the wide Moon Meadows of the West.

I can see the lonely ranch house in the great Moon Meadows of the West,
In the wide Moon Meadows of the West.

No cheerful smoke is curling from the chimney, whence unfurling
Like a tall and blisful gent in his woolly sheepskin dress.

I can hear the women weeping where their vigils they are keeping,
In the lone Moon Meadows of the West.

But the Chinook it is coming, it is coming, it is coming!
To the prone Moon Meadows of the West.

O'er mountain wall and hollow, while the happy shepherds follow,
She is coming with the crocus in her crest.

She is bringing hope and gladness to banish all the sadness
From the lone Moon Meadows of the West.

And the cattle sad and eager where Death doth them beleaguer
In the lone Moon Meadows of the West.

They are listening for the rushing for the gushing, for the thrashing
Of the Chinook with the thrushes in her crest;

And they with one accord cry aloud, "Bless ye the Lord!"
In the lone Moon Meadows of the West.

-The Khan.

"NOT WITHIN THE MEMORY."

The stories of climatic hardship in the West during the past season have produced at least one good thing—the poem reproduced here from the Toronto Star and written by The Khan. But the very stories from which The Khan got his inspiration did harm otherwise.

This winter, in its last days now, has been the severest winter in the west for many decades. "Not within the memory of the oldest old timer," has there been a season of such prolonged and severe cold.

Yet Edmonton and the surrounding district suffered practically not at all. There was coal in abundance, and feed in plenty for the cattle. There was no cessation in the usual round of tea or receptions, and on the cold night women in evening dress walked considerable distances with ordinary evening wraps, and frequently hatless. They did not take cold either.

There was no suffering for want of fuel in the poorest homes, such as we know of every winter in the east. Yet the very exaggerated reports that have gone out from newspaper men (of a sort) have created an impression of severe weather that it will take months of explaining and denying to dispel.

That tragic story of frozen settlers at Estevan has turned out to be the most unfounded canard. The winter has been equally severe in comparison in many parts of America. There is a well-known rumor of a mother and five children being frozen to death in New Brunswick.

And Europe has not been without its tragedies due to cold weather, as Lloyd's Weekly in its summing-up shows.

In Berlin last month, at least 20 persons were frozen to death. The tramway car-drivers were relieved of each journey, owing to the demands made on their endurance by driving in the teeth of the bitter east wind. Numbers of people fell dead in the streets of Paris from cold, and at all the hospitals in that city, hot soup was distributed twice a day to all comers. Sentinels have been frozen at their posts in Austria. Schools and theatres were closed at Trieste. Even the Danube was frozen over, and the Bosphorus and the Black sea were practically closed to navigation.

What the British Islands suffered from the unusual cold were the daily despatches this winter showed us. Alderman White of Calgary returned recently from an eastern tour, and in an interview with the Calgary Albertan the alderman pointed out the evil of this coal famine cry, as this gave the press on the other side a great opportunity to knock. The coal shortage had been general all over. In Guelph, one was lucky to get even five hundred pounds at a time, and in Walkerville the hotels were running half-closed all the time. They made no outcry, but for Calgary, a growing city wishing to secure business, the alderman thought the coal famine cry a great mistake.

Regarding the railway situation, he said, Alberta was a great deal better off than many of the States. "One of the officials in Minneapolis told Mr. White that for some time the railway had refused to accept a pound of freight outside of local grocery freight and regarding the great cry made against the C.P.R. about the shortage of cars for the shipping of grain, he was simply absurd taken in comparison to the fact that grain loaded on cars in October had never left the siding and yet the outcry in Canada, on the car shortage was a great deal louder than in the States."

A comment of Mr. C. C. Chipman, Commissioner of the Hudson Bay Company, in the course of an interview, is also very much to the point. "My personal observations have convinced me that many of our friends in the east and south are much more concerned about the severity of the winter in the west than those who inhabit the cities, towns and prairie of the great and fertile central belt," he said.

"Such conditions naturally check travel to some extent and it may be that with a milder winter, business would have been better, but my own party have no cause for complaint in that respect, and as far as I have been able to ascertain, all classes are happy people throughout the west, fully appreciating the bright future of our country."

Notwithstanding the serious complaints that have been made with regard to transportation shortcomings, there is no falling off at the C.P.R. stock yards. As a matter of fact, says the Manitoba Free Press, there is a large increase in the last two weeks of January, 1907, over the same period for 1906. The figures for cattle were 352 and 566 for 1906 and 1907 respectively, and the shipment of hog stands at practically the same figures as last year.

On the whole we in Edmonton, warming our hearts in sun-steepled Alberta have much to be thankful for.

A DAINTY ORIENTAL.

A young Japanese student, studying in London, had the misfortune to live in an apartment house where the janitor did not keep the hall in good condition. It was a great change to him and he felt it keenly.

On the approach of winter the janitor put up in the entrance the notice: "Please wipe your feet."

The young Japanese the first night he observed this notice, took out a pencil and added to it: "On going out."
